

Day One – Tuesday

This is the first in an admittedly short series of daily bulletins from MIPIM 2018. Blink and it will be Friday, especially as the Sheffield Property Association has an incredibly busy week.

The Sheffield Property Association is being represented at MIPIM by its members including: Anderton Gables, Arup, Bond Bryan, CMS, Colloco, Counter Context, Finnegan, HLM, Irwin Mitchell, Monaghans, Network Space, Rider Levett Bucknall, Scarborough International, Sheffield Hallam University, Shoosmiths, Turner and Townsend, Urban Splash and Whittam Cox Architects.

SIPA Members Delegation

Yesterday

The trek to Cannes on Monday is usually a bit of a bore. Thanks to the S-PA this year was a little different. In the autumn, the Property Association committed to fund the remaining seats needed by Sheffield City Region to book the first dedicated UK charter flight to MIPIM. Instead of having to travel to Manchester, Liverpool or Luton airports our region's representatives were able to fly to Cannes directly.

Over 80 of us congregated at Doncaster Sheffield Airport before boarding a FlyBe Charter that had been kindly facilitated by the airport. It was genuinely good to see the public and private sector talking and getting ready for the region's high-profile delegation to the South of France. We were even joined by members of the Leeds delegation who realised Doncaster Sheffield Airport is particularly convenient to get to from West Yorkshire.

Doncaster Sheffield Airport is a vitally important asset to our region. It was good to start our delegation to MIPIM closer to home.

What's Happening Today

Tuesday will see the S-PA represented at the Sheffield City Region Panel on Urban Centres. Martin McKervey, Nick Jones and Alexis Krachai will all be talking about the practical, can-do attitude that is seeing urban centres across Sheffield City Region go from strength to strength.

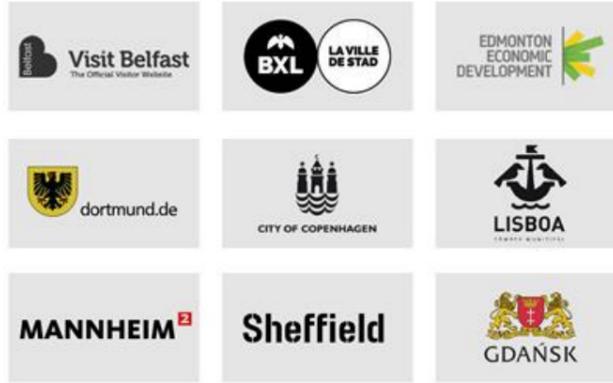

Over lunch we will be partnering with the Westminster Property Association and the City Property Association to host a high-level discussion about the importance of collaboration between UK regions. This lunch will be another opportunity to build a closer working relationship with our counterparts from the capital. The S-PA will be represented by Martin McKervey, Tim Bottrill and Dan Ladbury. John Mothersole will be attending at our invitation. He will be offering some opening remarks to help set the scene for a debate about relations between UK regions, the role of collaboration, capital and politics.

Later on S-PA Member, Arup, will be hosting their traditionally well-attended reception in the late afternoon before the S-PA hosts its first private event at MIPIM 2018.

The Tier 2 Cities Dinner will welcome key civic figures from Sheffield, Edmonton, Brussels, Lisbon, Gdansk, Copenhagen, Mannheim and Dortmund to talk about forging an international network of Tier 2 Cities. The dinner is the brain child of S-PA Board Member, Nick Jones, who has been working with colleagues from Edmonton in Canada to draw together representatives from around the world. In a first for the city, we will be joined by new friends from the Financial Times, McKinsey and Company and also Monocle Magazine who publish a hugely influential City Index of the best cities to live in on earth.

Tomorrow's bulletin will report back on what should be a fascinating discussion that will put Sheffield in the centre of a global debate about urban economic growth.
